

Marcy M. Moody, Treasurer and Finance Committee Chairman

The National Society of The Colonial Dames of America

Marcy Moody is treasurer and chairman of the Finance Committee for The National Society of The Colonial Dames of America, a nonprofit organization with more than 15,000 members who actively promote historic preservation, patriotic service, and educational projects. She has more than 25 years of experience in nonprofit financial management and has served as an officer and board member for numerous charitable and civic organizations. In the for-profit sector, Moody was an investment banker with Rotan Mosle and an investment counselor with The Bank of New York. She is a graduate of Smith College and Harvard Business School.